

Communication Quiz

True or false:

1. Making communication accessible is costly and time consuming
2. You always have to have all of your information in every format
3. It's always best to check on people's access needs before you start on something
4. It's better to do nothing about meeting people's access needs than try and do something and risk getting it wrong.
5. Making communication accessible only helps disabled people.
6. Font size 16 is the best for large print
7. It's good to pre-empt people's access needs, so for example, if you're communicating with a visually impaired person, always make sure that you have information in large print to give to them.
