Who are Grenfell Network Group ?

The Grenfell Network Group is a collaboration of residents, councillors and voluntary agencies which emerged from a meeting organized by Kensington and Chelsea Social Council in the weeks following the horrific fire at Grenfell Tower. It meets to share ideas and issues related to the North Kensington recovery, invites speakers and facilitates the development of local capacity to feed into democratic processes.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Objective

- To provide a solid foundation of local democracy within the five wards of North Kensington, which will trial a new model with a longer-term objective of providing a whole borough response to perceived deficits (or real) expressed by communities in the run up to the horrific fire at Grenfell Tower and in the time since.

Goals

- To achieve a high level of community participation in decision making in the borough
- To assist in attaining a long term, sustainable recovery for North Kensington in line with the desires of its community.
- To help reconcile RBKC, VCS, Residents and other stakeholders.
- To implement Asset-Based Community Development in North Kensington, making the most of its people, its history, and other local resources.

Solution

- To cede the recovery to the community, so the community consults on how the Council can help to deliver the wishes of the community. A 180° turn in decision making.

Proposal Outline

- A series of thematic groups in loose alignment with the Popular themes and ideas section of the recently published "Grenfell Recovery Strategy"
  - Local residents will be supported to populate these groups, alongside ward councillors, representatives of voluntary sector organisations and local businesses. Here they will deal with issues at the heart of the recovery such as mental health and well-being, housing, community assets etc. Each group member will bring local intelligence about the needs of their own street, block, client group, etc.
  - There will be a larger aggregated meeting of delegates of each thematic group – this is the North Kensington Recovery Group. The NKRG will consider proposals from each thematic group, prioritise them and allocate resources in line with their priority. RBKC, The Police, Public Health and CCG to name a few

Putting people in control of the places they live:

- Of budgets, public investment and decision-making
  - Of designing, delivering and improving the services they need and value. Any strategy must secure a positive environment for change (systems, opportunities, and institutions that facilitate popular decision-making, rather than opposing or avoiding it) AND enable and empower the majority of the local population to take advantage of it (by securing the time, resources, skills and knowledge required). RBKC can exercise exactly as much formal control over the North Kensington Recovery Group and budget as that group has over RBKC decisions and budgets. For example, if RBKC “consults” with the population on its own strategy and budget then the NKRK should “consult” with RBKC on its. Councillors are residents and can be delegates just as any other resident. This is a big piece of work and needs properly resourced, dedicated expertise to organize. It should include a strength-based assessment of the skills, knowledge and connections already present. RBKC officers should be part of the bank of external experts that NKRK can call on to ensure their work is well planned and effective.
  - Any proposal must show that it would have helped to avoid the fire by facilitating the local control that allowed the accurate warnings of residents to be over-ridden.
  - The model, (see last page) assumes that the NKRK has direct control over a substantial recovery budget. It is made up of delegates from its sub-groups who must each be a resident. These sub-groups are thematic – with themes chosen that reflect current strategic recovery priorities, informed by the work done to establish popular priorities by the RBKC Community Engagement team. The model would need resources for coordination.
  - The thematic sub-groups are themselves made up of delegates from the key stakeholders for that theme. The requirement that only residents may be delegated to the NKRK means that there be at least one resident on each of the sub-groups, and that the residents who act as delegates are supported to develop and maintain the skills and capabilities needed to both understand and communicate the work of their sub-group. In practice it will be necessary for these sub-groups to have multiple enabled residents on them in order to ensure that individual absence doesn't prevent them advocating for the sub-group's priorities or reporting back on NKRK actions to their sub-groups.
  - The NKRK sets recovery priorities and allocates resources. It delegates to expert thematic sub-groups the design and delivery of its priorities. These designs originate with those sub-groups and are brought to the NKRK for consideration by resident delegates from those sub-groups. Having residents as the sole delegates helps to ensure longer-term thinking and a focus on the issues that matter most to local people – professionals are more mobile, and it is easier for them to avoid the consequences of short-termism than is the case for many of the people who live in North Kensington.
