Community Weapons 'Flash' Sweeps

Flash Searches: A brief overview

- Flash Searches are intended to be a clear sign that local communities and police are coming together, searching their open paces such as parks and play areas, to take knives off of the streets.
- A 'Flash Search' is the term used for community based weapons sweeps. It seeks to evolve the current weapons sweeps tactics the MPS already have in place while placing a new focus on community engagement.
- Tower Hamlets borough have been piloting this initiative and have completed four searches since early July 2017 with local faith leaders from the Christian, Muslim and Jewish faith groups. Faith leaders have been very supportive of this initiative and are found to be a good way of reaching out to communities in the first instance.
- The results of these searches have garnered significant/positive media interest. On all searches, at least one sizable knife has been found concealed in the open spaces searched. The Flash Searches have recovered large Machetes, Zombie style knifes and kitchen knives. Other 'intended weapons' have been found such as hammers, baseball bats and iron bars. These are identified as intended weapons due to the clear manner in which they are concealed and easily accessible by those who want to access them quickly.
- The Flash Searches are very visible and engagement/results can be published on local borough social media feeds e.g. Twitter, Facebook.
